

ANALYST

Are you looking for an opportunity to gain experience from property investment market? Are you a critical thinker who seeks the root cause and can analyse both qualitatively and quantitatively? Are you a solid team player who enjoys working in a close-knit and goal-oriented company?

If yes - We are interested in having you as part of the high-performing, insightful Mrec team. In your role as an Analyst, you will participate in different stages of buy-side and sell-side transaction advisory assignments by collecting and analysing data from various sources, preparing presentations and information memorandums, conducting financial modelling, and managing due diligence processes with your senior colleagues.

Mrec offers you:

- An open, innovative, and dynamic working culture
- A great, supportive team with low hierarchy enabling your professional growth
- A chance to get a holistic view of the different aspects of property investment
- A competitive total compensation package

As an ideal candidate you are in the final stage of your Master's degree studies in a relevant field, for example finance, real estate economics, industrial engineering and management, accounting or similar. To thrive in this role, you need to have an analytical mindset, attention to detail and eagerness to learn. Also, we expect the ability to work towards deadlines in a fast-paced environment. In addition, we require fluent Finnish, English, and strong command of MS Office tools such as Excel and PowerPoint.

If you got interested in the Analyst position at Mrec, please send your application letter and CV by latest 7.10.2022 to katja.pettersson@mrec.fi. We will review the applications on an ongoing basis and might proceed in the recruitment process before the application deadline. Starting date is negotiable.
